Businesses Affected by Flood Waters Encouraged to Contact Department

(PIERRE, SD) – The South Dakota Department of Revenue is encouraging businesses affected by the Missouri River flooding to contact the Department regarding their situation.

“We realize that affected businesses may have difficulties completing their regular tax filing and payment remittance,” said Business Tax Director Jan Talley. “We want to do everything we can to assist these retailers.”

Business owners relocating themselves or their business, even on a temporary basis, or closing their operation are also encouraged to get in touch with the Department to provide up-to-date contact information.

“We want to make sure our contact information is as accurate as possible to ensure that we can provide the necessary support and service to our taxpayers,” continued Talley.

Tax licensees who have lost records because of the flood can contact the Department of Revenue for copies of past returns or other records we may have on file. The Department will try to accommodate these requests as quickly as possible.

Affected businesses can contact the Department of Revenue by calling our toll-free hotline at 800.829.9188.
